VI. SUMMARY OF KEY ISSUES RAISED DURING THE SEMINAR

A. On Disarmament and Control of Illicit Small Arms and Light Weapons: Silencing the Guns in Africa

11. Participants acknowledged the efforts deployed by Member States, Regional Economic Communities and Regional Mechanisms (RECs/RMs), the AU Commission, the United Nations and other specialized organizations and institutions to curb illicit circulation of weapons. Participants expressed deep concern over the continued intensification and proliferation of illicit small arms and light weapons in the Continent. They noted that the scourge was a result of a combination of national, regional continental and global dynamics, which are fueling conflicts in the Continent thereby undermining AU noble goal of effectively silencing the Guns in Africa by 2030. They specifically singled out the Sahel-Sahara region, the Lake Chad basin area, the Great Lakes region and the Horn of Africa region, as well as the northern part of Mozambique, as particularly of concern. They also noted, with deep concern, the increasing number of violent conflicts in the Continent, State fragility, the continued existence of ungoverned spaces in some Member States, the limited capacity by some Member States to effectively manage their national weapons stockpiles, the existence of porous borders, poorly governed maritime spaces, systemic corruption, the loopholes in global arms trade, organized crime syndicates, the proliferation of jihadist, armed and terrorist groups; and the persistence of inter-communal violence.

12. Participants acknowledged that effective arms control and disarmament programs are naturally complex, technical and political processes, which should be implemented comprehensively. They also acknowledged the existence of credible national, regional, continental efforts and international instruments, which are collectively indicative of Africa’s unwavering commitment to effectively address the scourge of proliferation of illicit small arms and light weapons.

13. In this context, participants recalled the SADC Protocol on Small Arms and Light Weapons, the Nairobi Protocol, the ECOWAS Convention on Small Arms and Light Weapons, the ECCAS (Kinshasa Convention). They also recalled the aspirations of AU Agenda 2063, particularly aspiration number 4; the Arms Trade Treaty; the 2002 Common African Defence and Security Policy; the 2006 AU Post-Conflict Reconstruction and Development (PCRD) Policy Framework, the AU Peace and Security Architecture (APSA); the African Governance Architecture (AGA) and AU Master Roadmap for Practical Steps to Silence the Guns in Africa by 2030. They further acknowledged the efforts of the Regional Centre for Small Arms and Light Weapons (RECSA); as well as the sustained implementation of the AU Africa Amnesty Month.

14. As recommendations on the way forward, participants:

   a) Member States to continue to redouble efforts in addressing the underlying root causes, drivers and factors that facilitate the proliferation of small arms and light weapons in the Continent;

   b) Member States, which have not yet done so, to sign, ratify and domesticate the relevant regional, AU and international instruments on small arms and light weapons, including the Arms Trade Treaty;

   c) Member States to continue to further strengthen inter-State cooperation, including through enhanced information and intelligence sharing, as well as joint operations;

   d) Highlighted the essence for enhanced cooperation and collaboration between the AU and UN, the RECs/RMs and other related institutions, including the Regional Centre of Small Arms and Light Weapons in the Great Lakes Region, Horn of Africa (RECSA);

   e) Reiterated the request in PSC Communique [PSC/PR/COMM.1085 (2022)], for the AU Commission to urgently elaborate a continental strategy for effectively addressing the scourge of proliferation of illicit small arms and light weapons and, in this regard, called for urgent development of a common African position as part of the preparation for the 4th Review Conference for the UN Plan of Action to be held in 2024;

   f) Underlined the importance of scaling up advocacy for the universal observance of the Africa Amnesty Month (AAM) and emphasized the need for active and meaningful participation of civilians during the AAM;
g) Member States to continue to make voluntary and more generous contributions to the AU Peace Fund, in order to endow it with more predictable and sustainable funding for the AU peace and security Agenda, and called for the use of Peace Fund based on the rules and regulations to address peace and security challenges facing the Continent;

h) Member States to redouble efforts in addressing governance deficits, the consolidation of effective state authority throughout the national territories, in order to avoid the creation of ungoverned spaces, as well as to more positively respond to the legitimate grievances of the population;

i) Also underscored the need for reviewing national, regional and continental early warning, conflict prevention, management and resolution capacities in the Continent in order to address the new security dynamics; and

j) Encouraged Member States to continue to further enhance their national capacities for law enforcement and effective management of national weapons stockpiles. In this regard, requested the AU Commission to continue to provide the required technical support.

B. On African Responses to Emerging Threats to Peace and Security in the Continent: Addressing the Scourge of Terrorism and Violent Extremism in Africa

15. The participants noted with deep concern that, the entire African Continent is facing the ever-growing and ever-expanding existential threat of terrorism and violent extremism. This is despite the existence of various instruments that include the Malabo Decision on Terrorism adopted by the 16th Extraordinary Session of the AU Assembly of Heads of State and Government in May 2022; the OAU Convention on the Prevention and Combating of Terrorism adopted by the 35th OAU Ordinary Summit held in Algiers, Algeria, in July 1999; the 2001 Dakar Declaration Against Terrorism; Plan of Action for the Prevention and Combating of Terrorism of 2002; the Protocol to the OAU Convention on the Prevention and Combating of Terrorism of 2004; and the various regional mechanisms and arrangements to combat the scourge, which include the G-5 Sahel Force; the Regional Cooperation Initiative against the Lord's Resistance Army (RCI-LRA), the Multinational Joint Task Force (MNJTF) against the Boko Haram, the African Union Transition Mission in Somalia (ATMIS), the Southern Africa Development Community Mission in Mozambique (SAMIM), as well as the Nouakchott, Djibouti Processes and Dakar Initiatives.

18. Participants identified the following as some of the challenges facing counter-terrorism efforts in the Continent, namely: abject poverty, destitution and underdevelopment; youth unemployment; marginalization of some communities; the existence of ungoverned spaces; lack of required capacities at national and regional levels; unpredictable, unsustainable and inadequate funding; lack of information and intelligence sharing; unilateral and uncoordinated efforts; porous borders; new information and communication technologies including digital platforms; the use of crypto currencies; proliferation of small arms and light weapons; proliferation of foreign terrorist fighters; as well as the existence of multiple sources of funding for terrorist activities, including payments for ransom, illegal exploitation of natural resources, as well as drug-trafficking in drugs and psychotropic substances and the nexus between trans-national organized crime and terrorism.

19. In this context participants made the following recommendations:

   a) Member States to adopt integrated, multidimensional and development-oriented holistic approaches that comprehensively and more directly address the underlying structural root causes and factors that facilitate terrorism and violent extremism;

   b) Robust responses that are also grounded in the affected communities, promote inclusivity of all relevant actors, namely, women and the youth, as well as community leaders and leaders of various religious sects; in this regard, recalling the provisions of the Bujumbura Declaration on Youth, Peace and Security, the participants reiterated the key role of African youth in the implementation of Agenda 2063 in terms of peace and socio-economic development in Africa and underlined the importance of supporting the annual process of the Continental Dialogue on Youth, Peace and Security;

   g) Effectively cutting off the terrorist and extremist organizations’ access to resources and funding, including by regulating the cyber-space and constructively engaging the identified sponsors, as well as naming and shaming those who assist terrorist groups;

   h) The necessity to redoubled efforts in the mobilization of predictable, adequate and sustainable support for all counter-terrorism efforts;

   i) Expedite the establishment of the Counter-Terrorism Unit within the African Standby Force pursuant to the relevant decisions of the AU Assembly; and
